CRAZY CUSTOMS OFFICER.

Berlin, April 13.—An illustration of faithful enforcement of Bureaucratic customs is given in the Burger Gazette of Muhlhansen, South German-Swiss frontier, caught fire Sunday. A fire engine from Basle, Switzerland, just across the frontier, came to help in extinguishing the flames. The customs officers, however would not allow the Swiss fire engines to cross the border unless the firemen paid duty for it, and while the discussion went on the building which was within a hundred yards of the custom house burned to the ground.

The mountain has been emitting fire and cinders for three days the first reliable report reaching here yesterday from a prospector camping near there and driven away by the fearful rain of ashes."

A Knock.

Miss Passy—Yes—tee hee! I'm engaged to Mr. Kallow. Now, some people have said he's too young for me. Miss Pepprey—That's nonsense! Miss Passy—Isn't it, though? Miss Pepprey—Yes; he'll age after he's married to you.—Philadelphia Press.

Grown Wise.

"Is yoh husban' lookin' foh work?" "Yes," answered Mrs. Pinkley. "He's done foun' out dat it's less work to go out lookin' foh work dan it is to stay home an' chop wood an' carry water foh de washtubs."—Washington Star.

Reminiscence.

When I was six I liked to scare The cats on the fence and tear A hole or two—but never mind; 'Twouldn't only bere you—quite unkind; I was in mischief everywhere. When Mabel met me on the stair And asked a kiss I pulled her hair And most decisively declined— When I was six. Those tomcats' sons now fill the air With notes of hideous despair. But I scarce hear them, for I find I'm missing why I'er resigned. That chance with Mabel—now so rare— When I was six. —Princeton Tiger.
